Armchair quarterbacks, prepare for your last big test of the season. Super Bowl VI, between the young Miami Dolphins and the veteran-laden Dallas Cowboys, will provide the entertainment for the last important Sunday in professional football this year. Although the players as far as money is concerned, this game seems to me to be an anti-climax to another season. Football seems out of season after New Year's Day bowl games last from sundown until sundown. Nevertheless, this one deserves a look because the teams are so-called "Gin-derralla" stories.

The Miami Dolphins, a perhaps the most impresdon (former Alabama star) along with veteran Chuck Howley, provide the best coverage of any linebacking crew in the league. The quarterback battle should be one of the most interesting developments of the game. Bob Griese and Roger Staubach are two of the most intelligent people ever to wear a football uniform. Neither will pick the opposing defense apart, but both will find weaknesses and capitalize on them. The biggest factor in the game will be which quarterback has the "hot hand." I'll go with the Dolphins, 24-13.

It will be interesting to see Joe Frazier against Terry Daniels this Saturday in New Orleans. This will be the first time Frazier has fought since his March bout with Muhammad Ali. However, the most interesting question about the fight is not who will win? but "how long will Daniels last?" If Joe is in good shape, I'll guess three rounds. If not, it could go for six or seven at any rate, Terry must really need the money. The National Collegiate Athletic Association voted last Saturday to allow freshman athletes to participate in varsity basketball and football games. It had previously made freshmen eligible to participate in all spring sports events. Technically, the new rule means that first year players are eligible only for past season and national championship events. Regular season competition is still left up to the conferences and schools involved. Personally, I don't look for the Southeastern Conference to use freshmen in their varsity programs in the near future considering how many most coaches are of playing sophomores.

I'll have to sympathize with the housewife who thinks that football season is something that can't be taken too seriously.

crowds Monday night movie and the Sunday matinee. This year's campaign, in spite of all its thrills, was a bit drawn-out. Triple Instant-replays became a bore to the biggest of fans after a while. Curt Gowdy and Al Delagotis, all respect shown to their football knowledge, do everything but sit at the table and eat with the family. After the Dolphins and the Cowboys play for "all the marbles," let's play golf, watch a movie, ride horses, etc., etc. . .

March Of Dimes Drive Is Now Underway

Young people in Elba are bringing the generation gap to a close. For the second year, March of Dimes TAP students (Teen Action Program) are participating in the annual January fund-raising campaign to prevent birth defects.

On January 15, Elba TAP students set up four road blocks throughout the city, collecting a total of $569.92.

TAP volunteers look beyond themselves and beyond today. They realize that they are the parents and protectors of tomorrow's generation. And they are willing to fight for the right of every newborn to be born free of birth defects.

An American tradition will continue on Thursday, January 20, as March of Dimes volunteers ring doorbells on behalf of the Mothers March against birth defects.

Mrs. Chip Westbrook, chairman of the annual drive, urges wholehearted support of this appeal to improve quality of life at birth. Mrs. Westbrook cites the rubella vaccine Rh serum and rapid advances in treatment at birth as birth as exciting progress in the quest for a healthy birthright for all children.

When your doorbell rings tonight, answer it. You won't find a salesman, a repairman, or a landlord. You will find a fighter. You can recognize this fighter by the badge that she wears-- "Mothers

Arts Council Announces

Local Grants

The Alabama State Council on the Arts and Humanities has officially announced a program assistance grant for the Southeast Alabama Arts Association of $1000.00. The grant is for the support of the cultural series offered by the SAA to the people of Enterprise Elba, Daleville, Ft. Rucker, Ozark, samsom, Geneva, Hartford, Opp, Florida, and New Brockton.

Mr. Lamar Rainer, president of the People's Bank of Elba, is one of the members of the State Arts Council from this area.

At 29, Gus Farris, of Elba, has just completed his internship and 10 months of surgical residency at the Baptist Medical Center in Birmingham. All his life Gus has hoped of becoming a doctor in a small town, and at last his hopes have become reality.

He went for an interview on December 3 to the small town of Helena, just 18 miles from Birmingham. He found that Helena's only doctor had had a stroke and would not be resuming his practice. An opportunity such as this was what Gus had been looking for, a little city life with the feel of the country.

He had this to say of the opportunity, "My wife Sue and I are just tickled to death about this."

Aunt Mariah Remembers River

By Fred Watson

It isn't very often that you find a person who has lived to see as many changes in the Wirgras area, as has Mariah Griffin, who was 106 years old, Monday January 10th, Aunt Mariah was born January 10, 1866, in Barbour County, Alabama. This was one year after the end of the Civil War, and just a few months after the people of her race were granted their freedom.

Aunt Mariah is more familiar with the Chattahoochee River, than any other living person, because for many years she worked as a stewardess, aboard three river boats which plied the river from Appalachicola, Fla. to Columbus, Ga.

The hey-day of the steamboat has gone from the memory of all but a few persons who met the river boats regularly as they pulled into the docks at Gordon, Columbia or Eu-

Marlah's mind is not as clear as it was a few years ago, but before she weakened her conservations of those river boat days, gave you a clear picture of the excitement and adventure tied to the life of those who worked on the early river boats. She recalled many of the routines which she enjoyed as a stewardess. "It was an easy life," she said. "All I had to do was take care of the women and children on the boats, and when there were no women or children on board all I had to do was sleep." Mariah was a stewardess on the City of Eufula, one of the last old-type steamers to operate on the river. It was a 26-ton capacity craft built in 1912 at Columbus, Ga.

In the 1920's The City of Eufula caught fire and burned at Neal's Landing in Fla., and Mariah is perhaps the only person alive who knows how the fire started.

"Instead of tending his work, the firemen was off courting with some of the girls from around Malone, who came down to meet the boat," Mariah stated. She remembers that she was on the top deck at the time the fire started over the boiler room, but she managed to get ashore as soon as the fire started.

The boat drifted downstream after the ropes burned. The captain of the steam boat was aboard, but a man with a small boat followed and took the captain off.

After the City of Eufula burned Mariah transferred to the John W. Callahan, Jr., another river steamer built in 1907, and said to be the last boat to operate regularly between Columbus and Appalachicola. She was aboard when the ill fated vessel struck a cypress stump in the Chipola cut-off near We-wahatchka, Fla., and sank.

When the company put the Callahan Jr., into service on the same run, Mariah took up her duties on the third vessel and worked as waitress on this boat until "the boats quit running."

Marlah then moved to Columbia, and worked as a cook and maid for the Oakley family, for many years.

In 1946 Aunt Mariah fell and broke both hips but with a strong determination, was able to walk again, but in 1949 she fell again and broke one of her legs.

The last of her children, a daughter, and the last of her immediate family, died in Birmingham and she was admitted to a nursing home in Andalusia where she stayed for two or three years. Then she came to Dothan to live with a great niece for a while. Mariah has been bed-ridden for over 20 years, and about two years ago was admitted to the Dothan Nursing Home.

"Mama" as she is called by all the nurses and the nursing home is mentally alert at times and will sometime sing bass for you if she feels good. Mariah received very little schooling as a young girl, but after living among the white people so many years, she is a "self-po-lished" person, and loves baseball. Until her mind became distorted she kept up with the world news. A few years ago she was able to name all the big league baseball players, and Babe Ruth was her hero. She enjoyed watching the games on television.

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest force in earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four main reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plans to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Nashville paper recently carried a news story about Mrs. Lila Craig, 81, who hasn't missed church attendance in 1,040 Sundays, a perfect record for 20 years. It makes one wonder—doesn't it ever rain or snow in her town on Sunday?

Doesn't Mrs. Craig ever have company on Sunday?

Doesn't she ever go anywhere on Saturday night so that she gets up tired on Sunday morning?

Doesn't she ever have headaches, colds, nervous spells, tired feelings, poor breakfasts, sudden calls out of the city, business trips, Sunday picnics or reunions? Doesn't she ever have friends who invite her to go on weekend trips? Doesn't she ever sleep late on Sunday morning?

Doesn't she ever read the morning paper?

Doesn't she ever become angry at the minister, or the Bible school teacher?

Doesn't she ever get her feelings hurt? Doesn't she have a radio or TV set so she can stay home and hear some good sermons?

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH MRS. CRAIG?

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

Q. Are there controls on how much my landlord can raise my rent?

A. Yes. New Price Commission regulations provide that a 2 1/2 percent annual rent increment may be added to the base rent to cover the landlord's operating costs, such as labor, electricity, gas, fuel, interest, etc. The increment must not be higher than 2 1/2 percent even if these costs are greater. This increment may be applied to month-to-month, week-to-week, and yearly leases. In addition, if there are increases in state or local real estate taxes, state and local fees and levies, or increases in charges for municipal services (exclusive of gas and electricity), these may be added onto the base rent and the increment increase.

Q. What information must a landlord include in a letter sent to a tenant notifying him of a proposed increase?

A. The letter must contain the following information: (1) the amount of monthly rent before and after the proposed increase; (2) the percentage increase and dollar amount of the proposed increase; (3) the effective date of the proposed increase; (4) the amount of the proposed increase which is attributable to capital improvements, state and local real estate taxes, and state and local fees, levies and charges for municipal services; and any increase allowed under the 2 1/2 percent rule; (5) the base rent and a explanation of the manner in which it was determined, including identification of units involved and dates and amounts of transactions where applicable; and (6) the method of computation of the proposed increase.

In addition, the letter must include statements approved by the Price Commission on the right of the tenant to examine the landlord's records documenting the increase and to meet with the landlord to discuss it, as well as a declaration by the landlord that the facts in the letter are true and that the increase is not in violation of Economic Stabilization regulations. The exact contents of these statements appear in the rent regulations.

Q. Does a landlord have to justify a rent increase of 2 1/2 percent?

A. No. However, he must notify a tenant in writing at least 30 days before a rent increase goes into effect. Q. Can a retailer satisfy the base price posting requirement if a shopper can obtain access to base price information only by asking the retailer for it?

A. No. Prices are not considered to be displayed "prominently" if a shopper can obtain access only through requesting base price information from the retailer or one of his employees.

Q. I'm taking out a new life insurance policy. Will my insurance premiums be subject to price controls?

A. No. Fees charged for all new life insurance and annuities, with the exception of credit-life insurance, are exempt from Phase II price controls.

Q. Rent controls do not apply to commercial, nonresidential property. How is property which is used both for commercial and residential purposes treated—for example, a building which is rented for office space and apartments?

A. The portion used for commercial purposes is exempt, but the portion used for residential purposes is subject to rent control. Q. Can an auto dealer try to charge for equipment on a car that was previously handled as standard? A. No. This would be a violation of the price controls.

Q. Can a new employee be hired, is he made to feel like he was hired only to perform his job with his hands instead of with his head? The businessman should remember that when a person is hired, not only are his hands needed, but the entire person in needed. Employees will improve his sales efficiency. An employee, given the chance, can often come up with some good suggestions and possibilities that the manager may have overlooked. This example gives some meaning to the old saying: "Two heads are better than one."

Not only does the employee participate in decision making often give the manager new and profitable ideas, but it also gives the employee a feeling that he has helped to make the business more profitable and that the manager looks upon him as a "whole person" rather than a "pair of hands."

High employee morale does not mean that the manager must not tell his employees what needs to be done. Employees can have high morale by spending the day in the "back room" playing cards and telling jokes. While high employee morale is achieved, to the business,

Great Events In American History

SENATOR JIM ALLEN

Ranking high among the rewarding experiences I have had since coming to the United States Senate is the opportunity to see and talk with Alabamians when they are in the Nation's Capitol. More and more family groups are coming to admire the museums, to watch their national government in operation and to see the sites and buildings where so much of the history of our Nation took place.

One of the most beautiful and most visited historical buildings in the entire world is the Capitol of the United States. And some of the most interesting but perhaps least recognized and understood features of the Capitol are the many marble and bronze statues that keep guard over busy corridors and which together are known officially as National Statuary Hall.

To know the story of how these statues came to be there and who they represent adds to the enjoyment of a tour through the Capitol. In 1864, Congress authorized the President to invite each state to present marble or bronze statues of two of its citizens selected by the State Legislature because of their historical importance or because of distinguished public service. One statue from each state would remain in the circular Old House Chamber, where great statesmen like Henry Clay and John Quincy Adams once served. The second statue would be placed elsewhere in the Capitol—in the Hall of Columns located on the ground floor of the House wing, in the Great Rotunda of the Capitol and in other prominent places on the main floor of the Capitol where they can easily be seen.

The first statue presented by the State of Rhode Island, Nathaniel Greene, who is known in history as savior of the South against the British. He claimed both Rhode Island and Georgia as his home and he is buried near Savannah, Georgia.

As of today, ninety statues have been given to this collection by the 50 states, with some having only one of their allotted two. The 86 men and 4 women represent a cross section of American life and they illustrate the variety of ways in which individuals have made significant contributions to our nation. Their names recall stories of hair-raising adventures and great events in American history. Well-known Founding Fathers such as George Washington and Alexander Hamilton stand with lesser-known Roger Sherman of Connecticut, who was the only one of the patriots to sign all four of America's first great State papers.

Brave Soldier - statesman like Andrew Jackson and Robert E. Lee are represented as are great political leaders such as Daniel Webster named by New Hampshire, but who gained most of his fame while serving Massachusetts, and John C. Calhoun of South Carolina. In my next week's report I want to tell you about Alabama's two representatives in National Statuary Hall and how they represent the genius of peace-loving America rather than military contributions. Even most of those who had outstanding military careers are characterized as soldier-statesmen in recognition of their contributions to a peaceful and prosperous America. The figures in National Statuary Hall are more than marble or bronze materials. They are constant reminders to us that the chief aim of human effort should be usefulness to our fellowman, and that true fame comes from noble deeds, high achievement and character based upon the principles of truth, righteousness and inflexible integrity.

I am proud to say that the two men selected to represent Alabama in this great collection far exceed every qualification for national recognition and remembrance. While both had distinguished military careers, one became a lawyer, served in Congress and authored a number of books.

When this method of employment relations is used, the businessman will discover to his surprise, that his employees know more about the business than ever before imagined. Truly, the businessman should realize that it costs the same amount of money to hire a "pair of hands" as it does a "whole person." So why not get your money's worth from your employees? The "Tonic for tired and listless employees" will free for the taking and will give a new life-blood to the business.

High employee morale is achieved, to the business,

WE ALL NEED CALCIUM

Readers of this column will recognize the following quotation: "I've used it before but it bears repeating because of its elixir and importance: 'A body well nourished with calcium and other nutrients can be expected to have good bone growth and development, a well-functioning nervous system, a high level of vigor and positive health at every age, and a longer period of the prime of life.'"

The promise of that statement is something everyone should seek to realize. The words are those of Dr. Milcent L. Hatha way and Ruth M. Leverton, who originally wrote them for a U.S. Department of Agriculture Yearbook more than a decade ago. But the message is even more meaningful today as we learn that malnutrition exists in America at all economic levels, not just from poverty but from ignorance or lack of motivation as well.

The Specific Needs

Young people need sufficient amounts of calcium all through their growth years if they are to realize their full physical potential. Then once they are adults calcium is needed to keep both bone and tissue in top shape. The body, including the skeletal structure, constantly loses calcium and needs new supplies from the foods we eat. And finally, when we are older, the disease called osteoporosis can set in, perhaps as a result of years of not getting enough calcium in our diets. If this happens, and it is common in America, the bones of older people become "thinned" and are in our food supply.

Greater Frequencies

Dr. Arthur N. Kales and James V. Phang report that "calcium in a single dose would be absorbed with less efficiency than calcium given in smaller, more frequent feedings." They conclude "that not only the magnitude of calcium intake but also the dose regimen can affect calcium metabolism."

Calcium helps the blood to clot. Normal blood clotting is an essential life-preserving process. Calcium helps muscles, including the heart and nerves, to work. Calcium also regulates the use of other minerals in the body. And, it is essential in the action of certain enzymes and the control of food we eat. And finally, when we are older, the disease called osteoporosis can set in, perhaps as a result of years of not getting enough calcium in our diets. If this happens, and it is common in America, the bones of older people become "thinned" and are in our food supply.

Locks are deceiving. Tommy has a hidden birth defect — an inborn error of body chemistry — that can cripple mentally and physically as surely as any visible deformity. But early detection and prompt treatment can overcome many of these conditions and protect a child's birthright to a normal, useful life.

That's the goal for every child treated at nearly 100 March of Dimes Birth Defects Centers across the nation.

ELBA REPORT

JANUARY BIRTHDAYS

New "Dixie" Copyrighted

A new song which may be used instead of "Dixie" to promote unity in Alabama schools has been composed by Gadsden High School's Choral Director Gene Barnes. Many black students object to their school bands playing "Dixie" song grounds that the famed theme song of the South contains overtones of racial prejudice. Barnes' song was used at a Gadsden High School football rally recently and received enthusiastic response from the mixed student body.

EDITORS OF THE WEEK

What if... Debbie Harrison kept quiet for five seconds, Donna Boswell stuck to one guy, Mrs. Davis was absent for two weeks, Mrs. Padgett forgot how to speak French.

Semester Test

Semester test were given last week on Wednesday and Thursday. Old period tests were given on Wednesday and on Thursday the even numbers were given. New semester courses started Friday, January 14.

Jokes Of Week

Jokes of the Week Teacher: "How many sides has a box?" Student: "Two, the inside and the outside."

First Dog: "My name is Laddie, what is yours?" Second Dog: "I'm not sure, but I think it's Down Dog."

Traffic Cop: "Lady you were doing 70 mph." Woman Driver: "Oh, isn't that wonderful, I only learned to drive yesterday."

Thine Self

Know Thine Self When you look in the mirror, do you like what you see? In the secret rituals of high magic, the first and the last question asked of an aspirant to a higher degree is, "Who are you?" It is a question each one of us would do well to ask. Many people live with a stranger and that stranger is themselves. In fact, psychiatrists tell us that the fundamental problem of neurosis is the alienation from self. They further tell us that it is very important to love and respect oneself, as well as others. In fact, if you do not love yourself, you can not love others. In order to love and respect yourself you must have a good self-image and you can only get a good self-image by coming to know your true nature. According to psychiatrists, the dependent type personality, one is prone to alcohol or drugs, lacks just this - a good self-image. A generation ago people were raised to live their lives for other people, rather than to fulfill their own potentialities. Sacrifice was the order of the day. Yet this failed. Today psychiatrists are aware of the importance of getting to know your true nature, your secret self. It stems from childhood, from the parents and if the child's image has been bad or distorted, feelings of inferiority and insecurity can develop. Self - respect and self-love come from a good self-image. Shakespeare expressed the same idea in this famous quotation: "To thine own self be true and it follows as the day the right thou canst be false to no man." But, how can you be true to yourself if you don't know who you are?

Self-image is very important, so everyone should try to discover who he is, because once he does he can then discover other people and what makes them the way they are. What I mean by this is once you discover who you are and what love is, you can then learn to love others. Mary Thrasher

Hiring Handicapped Award Is Presented

A Fairchild Semiconductor plant located on a Navajo Indian reservation in Shiprock, New Mexico, received the Employer of the Year award of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

The facility, which employs almost 400 handicapped workers out of a total of 900, manufactures semi-conductor devices.

The firm was honored at the National Association of Manufacturers' Congress of American Industry luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City.

In accepting the award, Leo L. Coombs, group director of industrial relations for Fairchild Semiconductor, pledged to continue to extend equal employment opportunities to the handicapped and socially disadvantaged.

The vast majority—more than 850—of the workers at the Shiprock plant are Indians. The facility carries on an aggressive recruitment program within the Navajo Indian reservation and offers training to overcome educational and other socio-economic handicaps.

For employees with severe physical handicaps, the company has installed hand rails, ramps, wide doorways and other accommodations that facilitate mobility and job performance.

Donna Nelson Zion Chapel Homemaker

Donna Nelson has been named Zion Chapel High School's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for 1972. She was chosen on the basis of her score in a written knowledge and attitude examination taken by senior girls on Dec. 7, and will receive a specially designed award from General Mills sponsor of the annual educational program. Additionally, she is now eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, to be selected from all school winners in the state judging which will center on performance in the Dec. 7 test, will be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship. Her school will receive a complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica from Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. A scholarship of $500 will go to the second-ranking girl in the state.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wornell Nelson of Elba. Donna, a 17-year-old senior at Zion Chapel, has been awarded many honors. She was recently chosen Senior Beauty. She is a member of the annual staff, president of the Library Club, president of the Senior 4-H Club, a member of the Beta Club, F.T.A., and Student Council.

Donna is well-qualified for the award of Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow as she has a great interest in homemaking. Her favorite pastimes are sewing, cooking, and crocheting.

national concern, and requires the resources of all citizens to combat it." In the past 10 years the FBI Crime Index has risen by 176 percent. In 1970 there were over 5,568,000 serious crimes reported throughout the nation. Crime has risen about eight times more rapidly than population growth and, unfortunately, reported crimes account for only a third of the number actually committed. Furthermore, arrests are made in barely 20 percent of reported cases. According to authorities, the causes of crime are bound up with the conditions of our society. Any attack on crime must require a national effort to lessen poverty, slum housing, ill health and illiteracy. SWEET CORN

A lot of folks like to plant some sweet corn. There are a large number of excellent sweet corn varieties this year. Some folks in Coffee County will plant sweet corn soon after the middle of February and take a chance on it not being killed. Others will wait until March to plant. In fact, we recommend if the weather is right, plant any time after February 20.

One of the best varieties I have ever tested is Seneca Chief. It matures in 80 days. It is yellow and has small ears, silver Queen, another variety, matures in 85 days. It is white and of excellent quality. Other varieties are Aristogold Bantam Evergreen, Calumet, Golden Queen, and Golden Security.

FENCES
I did not know that a fence made so much difference in the appearance of a place. A few days ago, I was driving between Elba and Jack and noticed a lot of new fences. It appeared that they had completely cleaned out the old fence and hedge row and put in a new fence. I also noticed that Rolloan Day in the McCall Store Community built some new fences this past year. Day is the newly elected chairman of the Coffee County S&S Committee.

Fences are expensive to build and maintain. I believe the years ahead we will use chemicals to control bushes, weeds, grasses and vines taking over fences.

NEMATODES
Leon Bailey of Route 2, Elba, believes in treating peanut for nematode. He said that they had not been able to make peanuts on for a number of years until this year when they treated for nematodes. Of course, not all of the peanut land in the county needs treating for nematodes. However, the only way to find out is by testing for them. The Nematode Lab at Auburn does an excellent job on this. Nematode samples must be handled differently from soil samples, check at our office in Enterprise for the plastic bags and boxes for samples.

PEANUT AND FIELD CROPS DAY
The annual Coffee County Peanut and Field Crops Day will be held Thursday, February 3, at the New Brockton National Guard Armory. Several of our Auburn specialists will be on hand to help with the program. These include Dean Bond-peanut specialist, Earl Burns-weed control specialist, and Walter Sowell - soil specialist.

The agri-business leaders and other businessmen in the county sponsor this meeting which includes a barbecue dinner. All farmers will be getting invitations in the next few days.

I can just about guarantee that you can pick up some profit - making ideas by attending this meeting. We will start at 9:00 o'clock and serve barbecue at 11:45.

PUBLICATIONS
Ordinarily, we don't sell any of our Extension publications which are prepared by various specialists on the state staff. However, we have two that cost quite a bit for them to prepare and they cost $1.00 each. They are Alabama Beef and Cow and Calf Production and Handbook of Agriculture. The Handbook is 460 pages and the Alabama Beef and Cow and Calf Production book is over 100 pages. We have hundreds of other booklets covering a lot of subjects in farming and home economics.

Many people in Coffee County wait too long to start gathering evidence of their age, according to Donald G. Valaska, social security representative for that area.

Proof of age is necessary before social security retirement benefits can be paid, he said, and too many claimants encounter a lengthy delay in receipt of their first benefit check simply because they did not plan ahead.
